Detailed Breakdown of Hardest Questions

5. Hole 5 – Par 4, 514 yards: After finding a greenside bunker with your second shot, your ball lies on the putting green in three, 20 feet from the hole. Your downhill putt for a score of four is hit too hard, rolls by the hole and comes to rest against a club another player left on the putting green 15 feet beyond the hole. You move the club out of the way, and the ball does not move. You make your next stroke and the ball comes to rest in the hole. Your score for the hole is:

64 / 189 correct responses

16. Hole 16 – Par 4, 508 yards: Your tee shot comes to rest in a tire mark within the crosswalk defined by green paint in the fairway. You make a stroke at your ball but don't hit it well. Although you don't watch the ball roll down the fairway, your caddie does watch it come to rest about 50 yards down the fairway. At this point another player's caddie suggests that crosswalks are treated as ground under repair. You then abandon the ball in the fairway and drop another ball under the procedure in Rule 16.1b using the location where your ball was lying in the ground under repair to determine the reference point. You play this second ball to just off the putting green, pick up your original ball and chip on and complete the hole in two putts. Your score for the hole is:

82 / 167 correct responses

8. Hole 8 – Par 4, 503 yards: Your second shot comes to rest on the putting green 20 feet from the hole. You mark the spot of your ball and lift, clean and replace it on the spot where it had come to rest. You do not lift your ball-marker. As you are 15 feet from your ball and reading your putt, the ball rolls two feet toward the hole. You see this but go ahead and putt the ball from the new location. You take two more putts to finish the hole. Your score for the hole is:

94 / 189 correct responses

11. Hole 11 – Par 4, 365 yards: Your tee shot comes to rest in the bunker right of the fairway. When deciding what club to use, a pinecone is blown by the wind and comes to rest next to your ball, but does not cause your ball to move. However, your lie is worsened as a small mound of sand was created by the pinecone next to your ball. You remove the pinecone and re-create your lie as closely as possible. Prior to playing from the bunker, someone in your group questions whether you were allowed to re-create your lie, so you restore your lie back to what it was after the pinecone worsened it. You hit a poor shot that remains in the bunker but is now closer to the hole. Prior to playing your next stroke, your caddie smooths the area where you just played. You finally get out of the bunker with your next stroke and hole out in three more strokes. Your score for the hole is:

119 / 168 correct responses

12. Hole 12 – Par 5, 577 yards: Your tee shot comes to rest under an evacuation golf cart that is parked left of the drive zone. As you are walking to your ball, you see a volunteer near the cart and give her the thumbs up to move it. In moving the cart, your ball is pushed into the ground. When you get to your ball, you lift it from the altered lie and drop it within one club-length. The dropped ball comes to rest in much deeper rough than where it originally came to rest under the cart. You take two more strokes to reach the putting green and two putts. Your score for the hole is:
